Luca Gebre-Mariam

What's up, I am Luca. I study comp sci at CU boulder. I don't plan on staying in a computer science career, and I refuse to be working the standard job by 30, but I think computer science can teach me valuable skills that I plan to use later.

I enjoy weight lifting, Combat sports and in general bettering myself. I like to think about what work I am avoiding and try my best to do that first. I always consider what is difficult and hard, and like to do those things, because they are hard for a reason. I am a very optimistic person and I always catch myself Imagining what is possible when I apply myself.

In the future I have aspirations to use my computer science job to invest in real estate, and I have many plans to reduce all my costs drastically and have money to work with. Three other friends and I have a goal of doing whatever we can to become rich, and we all plan on using our respective degrees income to contribute to business plans and ways of attaining financial freedom.
